Alexandris, Vs., August 4, 1881.

I was thrown from my horse 6 or 7 years ago, and suffered a severe wound of the side, which was sggravated by disordered bidneys. Eleven months ago I was attacked with pneumonis and bladder disease, deposits of brick dust and albu men being discernable by the nabed eye. I was confined to the house for six months, and was unable to cross the floor without assistance. My physician did me no good. Having read in my religious weeklies of the wonderful cures by your Safe Kidney and Liver Cure, and being advised to use it by Captain Graham, I did so, and am once more able to walk the streets. My pains have left me, and I believe if I had used the remedy a year ago I shou'd then a co have been cured.

Intensely Utter.

A few months ago the daughter of a Rockland man, who has grown comfortably well off is the small greenry line, was sent away to a "f.male college," and last week she arrived home for the holiday vacation. The old man was in attendance at the depot when the train arrived, with the old herse in the delivery wagon to coavey his daughter and her trunk to the house. When the train had storped a bewitch. ing array of dry goods and a wide-brimmed has dashed from the our, and flung itself into the elderly party's arms.

"Why you superlative pa!" she exclaimed "I'm ever so utter'y glad to see you."

The old man was somewhat unnerved by the greeting, but he recognized the seal-skin cloak in his grip as the identical picce of property he had paid for with the biy mare, and he sort of equat it up in his arms, and planted a kiss where it would do the most good with a report that sounded above the noise of the depot. In a brief space of time the truck and its atterdant baggage were loaded into the wagon, which was soon bamping over the hubbles to ward home.

"Pa, dear," said the young miss, surveying the seam with a cruical eye, "do you cousider this quite excessively beyond?"

'lley?" returned the old man with a puzzled air; 'quite excessive beyond what? Beyond Warren? I consider is somewhat about ten mile beyond Warren, countio' from the Bath way, if that's what you mean." "Ob, no. ne; you don't understand me," the daughter explained: "I mean this wagon and house. Do you thick they are soulful?-do you thick they could be studied apart in the light of a symphony, creven a simple posm, and appear as intensely utter to one on returning home as one could express?" The old man twisted uneasily in his seat and muttered somethior about he believed it used to deliver perk in, but the conversation appeared to be traveling in stel a lonesome direction that he ferened the horse a resounding crack on the rounds, and the severe jolting over the frczan ground provented further remarks. 'On, there is that levely and consummate ms!" recesmed the returned collegiatess as spectacies. "Well, Maria," said the old man at the supper table, as he nipped a piece of butter off the tump with his own knift, an' how d'you like your school ?" "Well, there, pa, now you're shou-I mean I consider it far too beyond," replied the daughter. "It is ut queechably ineffable. The gir's are so sumptuously stunning-1 mean grand-so exquisite- so intense. And then the parties, the balls, the rides-ob, the past weeks have been one sublime barmory."

"Is'pose so-Is'pos so," nervously assented the old man as he reached for his third cap. "balf ful," - but how about your books-readin', writia" grammar, rule o' three-how about thea?"

"P.! don't," exclaimed the daughter re-propoblally; "the rule of three! grammat! It is French and music and patoting and the di-Vine in art that have made my school life the bos-I mean that have rendered it one unbrokee flow of rythmic biss-incomparably and exquisitely all but."

The greecy man and his wife looked belressly as each other recess the table. After a lopesome pause the old lady said:

"How do you like the biscuits, Maria?" "They are too utter for anything," gushed the accomplished young lady, "and this plum preserve is a poem in itself."

The old man rose abruptly from the table, and went out or the room, rubbing his bead in a dsza1 and benumbed manner, and the mass convention was dissolved. That night he and his wife sat alone by the stove until a late hour, and at the breakfast table the next morning, he rapped smartly on his plate with the handle of his knife, and remarked:

"Maris-mean' your mother have been talkin the thing over, an' we've come to the conclu-sion that this boardin' school business is too utterly all but too much nonsense. Me an' her consider that we haven't lived sixty odd consummate years for the purpose of raisin' a curiosny, an' there's goin' to be a stop put to this unquencoable foolishness. Now after you've finished eatin' that poem of fried sausage an' that symphony of twisted doughnut, you take an' dust up stairs in less'n two seconds, an' peel off that fancy gown an' put on a califer, an' then come down here an' help your mother wash dishes. I want it distinctly understood that there sin't goin' to be no more rythmic foolishness in this house, so long's your superlative pa an' your lovely an' consummate ma's runnin' the ranche. You hear me. Maria?' Maria was listening.—Rockland Courier.

A BARBER'S BLACK LIST, - Pailip Hans, of

Astoria, wields a rezor in a small shop on Main street, in that autiquated and oppressed suburb of Long Island city. Two weeks ago Mr. Hans placed a piece of pasteboard in his window, and for the first time in his life astoniated the desizens of the village. The placerd was headed "Debrors," and its subject matter set forth that twenty-one residents of Astoria owed the barber from $10 to 25 cents for services rendered. Among the number was the name of a Methodist minister. Some of the delicquents having equared up, their names were bidden by strips of colored paper, g ving the placard the appearance of a geological map. Many of the names upon the list are well known in the village. The minister, it is said, was formerly paster of a Methodist church.
